

Kelly Hyde

---

1420 Barr Ave, Pittsburgh, PA 15205
(716) 673-5087

OBJECTIVE To obtain a tenure-track faculty appointment at a research university and conduct research in development, health, and behavioral economics, using a combination of empirical and experimental methods.

EDUCATION Ph.D., Economics

University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA, expected 2021

Concentrations: Development economics, experimental economics, applied microeconomics

Ph.D. Comprehensive: “The Role of Water Availability in Mitigating Heat-Related Mortality: Empirical Evidence from South Africa,” completed Spring 2019

GPA: 3.86

RESEARCH Preparing for Submission

“The Role of Water Availability in Mitigating Heat-Related Mortality: Empirical Evidence from South Africa”

Works in Progress

“Living Jerrycan to Jerrycan: The Cost of Drinking Water in Urban Nigeria”

“Blood and Water: The Effects of Conflict on Sustainable Development”

“Surveillance, Democracy, and Regime Persistence: A Lab Experiment”

Replication and Extension of “Conveniently Upset: Avoiding Altruism by Distorting Beliefs About Others’ Altruism” (Di Tella et al., The American Economic Review, 2015) (with Lise Vesterlund, Alistair Wilson, Kanatip Winichakul, Logan Bialik, Yufei Chen, Neil Silveus, Taylor Weidman, and Liyang Zhou)

Gender-Associated Consumption and Intra-Household Bargaining (with Osea Giuntella and Rania Gihleb)

Presentations

Population Association of America Annual Meeting, April 2019

American Society of Health Economists (ASHEcon) Annual Conference, June 2019

Advancing Research through Computing (University of Pittsburgh Center for Research Computing), March 2019

Grad Expo (University of Pittsburgh Graduate Student Organization),

March 2019

TEACHING

Teaching Assistantships

Math Methods for Economists (graduate), Professor Roe Teper, Fall 2018

Introduction to Microeconomic Theory (undergraduate), Instructor Malory Avery, Summer 2018

Introduction to Macroeconomic Theory (undergraduate), Professor James Kenkel, Spring 2018

Advanced Microeconomic Theory I (graduate), Professor Luca Rigotti, Fall 2017

AWARDS

Andrew W. Mellon Predoctoral Fellowship, 2019

Student Poster Contest Winner, Advancing Research through Computing, March 2019

Summer Research Fellowship, University of Pittsburgh, Summer 2018

Slesinger Fellowship, University of Pittsburgh, Fall 2016